The First Penguin Crusade

It came to pass one day in July AS XXXVII that Lord Tadgg h-ua Faelan was visiting the Cathedral when he heard talk that it had passed time that those of the peerage go forth to the far flung branches of An Tir to spread their wisdom.

Being the seneschal of one of those far flung branches he spoke up, "Come, my friends, to Cae Mor! We are very far flung and in much need of your wisdom." "Where is this Cae Mor of which you speak?" came the reply. "700 miles and more north and west of Lions Gate." said Tadgg, and the sound of crickets was all that was heard for many days within the Cathedral.

Feast of Neuvo Mundo

Spain has always been a leader in exploration. The Romans left their imprint ,principally in the irrigation of parts of the East Coast, and the introduction of Olives, while 700 years of Moorish occupation resulted in almonds,citrus fruits and fragrant spices becoming integral ingredients in Spanish cooking. The discovery of the New World by the Conquistadors from Columbus to Cortez have brought forth some new and exciting foods like tomatoes, sweet and hot peppers, zucchini, many types of beans, potatoes and vanilla. I have word that some of these new foods are considered to be aphrodisiacs. The Shire of Eisenmarche would like to share these wonders with you and we invite you to join us for the Feast of Neuvo Mundo.

Only 60 tickets will be sold so be sure to get yours soon. Banquet tickets can purchased from
HL Vivienne of Shaftesbury HL Rhiannon ap Gwynedd
kldolphin@shaw.ca rhiannon.9@shaw.ca

So you are poor and cannot afford a ticket.....can you entertain? Hungry and you would like to sing for your supper? All bards, entertainers can earn coin from each table. This can then be exchanged for food at the kitchen.

Birka : The End of The Silk Road

March 29, AS XLII (2008)

Shire of Cragmere (Saratoga Beach, BC)

Valhalla Hall – Saratoga Beach
 Doors open at 5 p.m. – close at midnight
 Cost: $10.00 per head; people under 18 free

This wonderful hall is set in Birka. Birka was the end of the silk road and an amazing place in period – pretty much all our period. Your persona ended up in Birka, possibly in a trading caravan, or perhaps you live here?

If you google Birka, silk road you will find many, many entries; here is one:
ancientworlds.net/aw/Places/District/1008750

Our feast is a pot luck – so we are eating at an Inn in the market place. Please remember we have no (NO! None!)cooking facilities; you must bring things ready to eat or in a crockpot or whatever!

Contest

The best story that tells about why you are in Birka, and what trials and pitfalls, or wonderful things, have happened to you between where you started from and arriving here. This can be delivered by one person, or if you had several in your party, it can be delivered almost like a small play - with the 'party' all involved.

Sorry, That's Not A Tricorne

by Sevrin Lord de Savage

A misconception on when the tricorne hat was first introduced in Western Europe has arisen out of research based solely on a superficial visual interpretation of headgear found in historic portraits of notable clergymen. What appears at first glance to be a tricorne hat, is in fact a biretum or catercap (also known as a Canterbury cap).

A biretum (biretum, birettum, dim of birrus; Fr: barette; Eng: barret-cap) is a brimless cap worn by the catholic clergy from the 13th century onward. Prior to this era, the pileus (a skull cap) was the favoured headwear, with the name biretum at first being synonymous with the pileus. Over time, the style of the biretum evolved into the form that is still in use today.

The biretum is square and stiff with three or four raised board-like arched ridges at times bearing a knob or tassel at the centre junction. The cap is covered with cloth or silk and its colour depends on the rank of the wearer; white for the Pope; red for Cardinals; purple for bishops; and black for the lower ranking clergy.

The variation found in England was the Canterbury cap, later known as the catercap, which was of a softer form with four protruding peaks and a raised seam across the top forming the shape of the cross. Seen from the front and worn slightly back on the head - as in the portraits of Cardinals Pole and Sadoletto to the right - the catercap appears to only have three points, the one on the back not being obvious.

The actual construction of the biretum or catercap can be seen in this mid-16th century portrait of an unknown Cardinal

Cardinal Reginald Pole (1500-1558)

Cardinal Jacopo Sadoletto (1477-1547)

The tricorne hat (or tri-cornered or three-cornered hat) was a wide brimmed hat usually black in colour that was pinned to the sides and back to form a triangular shape unlike the square biretum or catercap. The tricorne came into popular fashion very late in the 17th century and falling out of favour shortly before the French Revolution.

So, no - the tricorne hat did not exist within the time period mandated by the Society for Creative Anachronism.

More of the history of the Penguin Crusade (contd. from the front cover)

It was many days later that Tadgg recieved a missive from Squire Victoria of the Azure Brotherhood. "We are not peers of the realm, however we are gentles of no little learning, and would be pleased to come forth to Cae Mor to share what we know."

"Joyous day!" cried Tadgg. Much discussion followed, between Squire Victoria, Squire Fiacha the Blue (the head of the Azure Brotherhood) and Lord Tadgg. Through this discussion it was determined that the Azure Brotherhood would travel north in April AS XXXVII and teach workshops and share in a grand feast. "This event needs a name." said Fiacha. "Perhaps it should be called a crusade, for that is what it seems we will be doing. Crusading to the far northern lands of Tir Righ, where surely we will encounter penguins." "Then the Penguin Crusade it shall be." replied Tadgg. Thus it came to pass that the Azure Brotherhood lead the first crusade to Cae Mor in search of Penguins.

Insula Magna New Year's Heraldic Masque

May 3-4, AS XLIII

The combined branches of Insula Magna (Vancouver Island, BC)

Come to the first Insula Magna event that brings everyone together for fun and merriment! All groups in Insula Magna will be participating in this extravaganza celebrating the New Year of the SCA. There will be feasting, fighting, dancing, racing and Ithra! The overall theme is Heraldry. So dust off your devices, create new garb or find a tricycle (see races below) and show Insula Magna your (or your groups, or Tir Righ's or An Tir's) Heraldry!

The morning will comprise of Ithra classes. Fighting, Heavy and Rapier will occur during the day. The Arts and Sciences will be on display all afternoon. At the end we will have Insula Magna champions! In the evening all the groups will march into the feasting area where we will enjoy a feast prepared by all the different Insula Magna groups.

Fighting Details tba

Heavy Run by HL Ming Lum Pee

Rapier Run by Lord Alejandro del Oso

Arts contest Details tba

Science contest

Run by HL Hucbald ap Urp

The contest is Demonstrate-able Sciences, any medium with the intention that it is something that can be taken to and shown at a school or public demo.

Demonstrations should appeal to all levels of experience. Remember, safety is always a concern! Ideally the demonstrations would last about 15 minutes, but this time is approximate, it can be more or less, depending on content. The buy-in for this contest will be a prize to be given away. Judging criteria shall be based on the Tir Righ A&S judging forms http://www.tirigh.org/library/forms/007_AS_Objects.pdf

There shall be three judges representing three experience levels, Award of arms, Grant and Laurel. The judges shall be chosen based on experience in the SCA, not rank (ie. The Laurel level may be represented by someone with 20+ years and lots of experience but is not a Laurel).

Banner Contest

Sponsored by HL Meredith of the White Cliffs

There will be two (2) contests for Banners and Heraldic display.

The first one is an individuals banner and/or display of heraldry. These can be your personal banners, your Groups banners, Insula Magna, TirRigh, AnTir badges. Could be your table décor, your outfit, the banner(s) on the wall, whatever you decide to include. Prize will be the last T shirt with the TirRigh badge on it.

The second is the Group effort - the Shire or Barony with the best Heraldic display (don't forget the Insula Magna device!) will win the coveted honour of being the Island's best dressed Group!

Your display can include whatever you wish, my suggestions are your Banners, your clothing, your tables - and whatever! The hall will look very nice if we all do up our area in our own colours.

Races

Run by HL Marina of Ravensley

At every event it is fun to have something silly (yet if possible keep your 'steeds' decorated heraldically - use your own device or that of your shire or barony!) At very least your 'steed' (a tricycle??) MUST have an 'SCA persona' and not look like a mundane vehicle.

Insula Magna New Year's Heraldic Masque (cont'd)Races

Run by HL Marina of Ravensley

At every event it is fun to have something silly (yet if possible keep your 'steeds' decorated heraldically – use your own device or that of your shire or barony!) At very least your 'steed' (a tricycle??) MUST have an 'SCA persona' and not look like a mundane vehicle. There will be four races, around an oval track:

1. The Youth Race for children big enough to reach the pedals.
2. The Cavalry Race for armoured fighters.
3. The Runaway Lovers Race for a pair, one sitting crosswise before the rider. Couples need not be either lovers or runaways.
4. The Ladies Race for the distaff side. Have a care for your skirts, ladies.

The Steeds:

Are comprised of steerable small tricycles or quadracycles.

- It must have three or four wheels for stability.
- Wheels can be 20 inches or smaller in diameter.
- It will be no wider than 26 inches and no longer than 50 inches wheel hub to wheel hub.
- It will be propelled by a single person pedal power.
- Hard bits that could bruise a contestant in the melee of a race shall be padded. A hobby horse head is a bonus.
- Head protection is required for all racers. For the armoured race helms are more than sufficient. For the other races I would like to see the best disguise of a bike helmet.
- One of the races is a pairs event, therefore a saddle that can accommodate a passenger set sidesaddle is useful.
