FROM THE STORM THRONES

Unto the People of Tir Righ and An Tir,

Today An Tir pushes on without the guidance of one of its Lions. The second Lion has gone to join the ethereal pride. However, it is a pride that has left us with a worthy crew to continue our journey, due in no small part to the efforts of Baron Sir Master Gerhard Kendal of Westmoreland.

Gerhard walked among us as a font of natural and inexhaustible energy. Never was there a moment so dire that Gerhard could not manage to smile, raise those eyebrows and convince you against all logic that everything was going to be fine. Even in the heat of great debates, Gerhard knew that life was about living and being passionate about what you could do. He inspired countless people to grow, learn and live the medieval life. Voices have rung out across the Laurel Kingdoms as people have raised their glasses high in remembrance of this great man. We add Our voices and glasses to the chorus in honour of his life, his deeds and his memory. Our hearts are with Gerhard's family and all who remember this great man's accomplishments and love of life.

To Gerhard, may your journey continue to be fun.

Ulf
Prince Tir Righ, An Tir

Celdae
Amira Tir Righ, An Tir

Baron Sir Master Gerhard Kendal
of Westmorland at Investiture,
September 2003.

A friend who has touched so many will not be forgotten.

FROM THEIR HIGHNESSES OF TIR RIGH

(Please note this message was originally submitted two months ago and became mislaid in the change over of Chronicler's offices)

Greetings unto the populace of Tir Righ,

We thank the people of our young but strong principality for their support, and the Shire of Shittimwoode for hosting our investiture. Thegn Einar and Hleafdige Thora have our heartfelt thanks for giving us guidance as we prepared for our reign. We wish them well and appreciate the efforts they put into Tir Righ.

As we move into our reign there are many things to accomplish for this still young principality. Tir Righ still needs specific awards and our heralds are working hard on getting these passed. A place is only what its people make it. Our traditions start now and we can become the most chivalrous and courteous principality throughout the Knowne World if we work together to achieve it. Just as the ladies of An Tir have often been hailed as beautiful, We would like to see the hearts and wills of the people of Tir Righ hailed the same way and we encourage everyone to reach out to new people and welcome them. Be courteous to all and help anyone you see who needs a helping hand. Use and share your skills to bring forth the wonderful atmosphere of medievalism.

We encourage our subjects to join us in supporting the Crown of An Tir at Estrella War in Atenveldt(Phoenix, Arizona) from February 11-16, 2004. We will bloody the fields of battle and leave the might of Tir Righ fresh in the minds of our foes.

We hope to see many of our subjects through the coming months as we travel over our good lands to survey the work of our populace.

Best Wishes and Good Cheer

Prince Ulf

Amira Celdae

TIR RIGH COURT REPORT

Greetings unto all who read these words!

On the 6th day of December, Anno Societatis 38, Their Highnesses of Tir Righ, Prince Ulf and Amira Celdae held their second court at Baroness' Winter Tourney in Lions Gate.

Prior to Their Highnesses Court, Master James of Seagirt was suitably punished for failing to wear the token of his position on retinue, the pink tassel. If the good people remember, Master James called Their Highnesses "wannabes" prior to their stepping up. Amira Celdae devised a suitable punishment for Master James for his lapse of proper etiquette (yet again). For about an hour or so, Master James became a foot stool for Amira Celdae's lotus feet to rest upon. Master James was issued a reprieve, as he had to catch the boat back to Seagirt.

Let it be known that Prince Ulf and Amira Celdae granted the following awards: Prince Ulf and Amira Celdae presented Lady Josephine Blackthorn with a Goutte de Sang on behalf of King Gunnar & Queen Gabriell

Sir Gerhard Kendal of Westmoreland: Order of the Red Flame The Order of the Red flame was created by Amira Celdae, and membership is awarded by the Princess for excellence in researching and recreating the Middle Ages. (currently unofficial)

Prince Ulf and Amira Celdae presented HL Morweena of House Descardo with the Order of the Silver Pheon on behalf of Einar & Thora. The award was carved in runic on an arrow.

The Order of the Silver Pheon is an armigerous award given for significant contribution to archery within the Principality of Tir Righ. (currently unofficial)

The following Retinue were newly sworn in: Hilâl bint Shareef of Eisenmarche, Mistress Seiglynda of Elphinstone of Lions Gate. Hilâl is the youngest member of Their Highnesses' Retinue, and will act as Page when she is present.

The following presentations were also made:

Amira Celdae presented largesse tokens to Baroness' Tourney A&S entrants. The tokens were necklaces in the colours of Tir Righ and made with pride.

Amira Celdae presented Countess Melissa Kendal with beautiful black leather gloves with rabbit fur cuffs, which she had started for the countess when Melissa was queen. All shared the joy that Countess Melissa displayed upon receipt of her long overdue gloves.

The presiding nobles who witnessed these events were Their Royal Highnesses Crown Prince Skapti and Crown Princess Asa, and Their Excellencies Baron Harold Devin and Baroness Aurora Argentius. Honoured guests were Duke Paul of Bellatrix and Viscount Brian of Bellatrix from the West Kingdom, and Viscount Edward Zifran d'Gendy from the East Kingdom (previously of Shittimwoode).

Their Highnesses offer congratulations to all the recipients, and enjoyed themselves amongst the many people at Lions Gate. .

Modern Tastes and Medieval Cooking.

Theocharista Irena Diaconia, JdL

As many of you know I am avid an medieval cook. I really enjoy medieval food. However, not everyone is convinced and even I will admit to being reluctant about some of the recipes. But most of the time the taste is very appealing to our modern sensibilities. In fact, there are many things we eat today that grew out of medieval dishes such as the recipe below for White torta (medieval cheesecake)

So, I thought it might be interesting to include some of these recipes now and then in the Sentinel. Hope you will try this recipe and enjoy the results.

Torta Blanca - White Tart.

From: Libro de arte coquinaria by Maestro Martino (15th century)

Translation of Original: Take a libra and a half of good fresh cheese and cut it up fine and pound it very well; take twelve or fifteen egg whites and blend hem very well with this cheese, adding half a libra of sugar and half an oncia of the whitest ginger you can find, as well as a half libra of good, white pork lard, or instead of lard, good fresh butter, and some milk, as much as needed; this will be a good third of a boccale. Then make the pastry and put it into the pan, as thin as it ought to be, and cook it nicely with fire both below and above; and make sure that the top is a little coloured from the heat of the fire, and when it seems cooked remove it from the pan and put fine sugar and rosewater on top.

Redaction:

Pastry:

2 cups unbleached flour 2/3 cup butter
1/3 cup very cold water (approximately)
½ teaspoon salt:

Mix salt and flour and cut in the butter until the mixture resembles coarse meal. Add water until mixture just comes together to form a ball. Wrap pastry in wax paper or saran wrap and chill at least 1 hour. Then roll out thinly enough to line a 9" tart or pie tin, at least 2" deep. Try not to handle the pastry too much as this will make it tough.

Filling:

12 oz ricotta
7 egg whites ½ cup butter softened
¾ cup sugar
1 tsp ground powdered ginger OR 2 tsp finely ground fresh ginger
1 ¼ cup whole milk
1 teaspoon salt

Topping:

3 tablespoons sugar
1 ½ teaspoons rosewater.

Preheat oven to 425 degrees. With food processor, electric mixer or by hand cream the sugar and cheese together until smooth. Blend in the butter, ginger and salt. Beat the egg whites briefly just to break them up and blend them with the cheese mixture. Add enough of the milk to make a mixture the consistency of thick cream. Pour into the pastry lined tin. Bake for 15 minutes, lower oven temperature to 375 and continue baking for 40 minutes or filling is firm. If the top is browning too quickly, cover it with aluminum foil to protect it. When the torta is removed from the oven sprinkle the sugar rosewater mixture on top so it will melt a little but still be a bit crunchy. Cool completely before serving.
